Ike Charges Faubus Encouraged Mob Violence

JUDGE BANS TEAMSTERS ELECTION

Protests Russell Statement

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP)—President Eisenhower today accused the state administration in Arkansas of having encouraged mob violence in the Little Rock school case.

The President spoke out on the school integration problem in Little Rock through a telegram to Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.). Russell wired the President Friday protesting what he called "strong-armed, totalitarian police-state methods being employed at Little Rock."

Russell compared the presence and acitivity of the 101st Airborne Division paratroopers guarding Central High School in Little Rock with "Hitler's storm troopers."

The President obviously was angered by the Russell telegram. In his reply, he implied strongly that the strife around Central High School would never have happened if the Arkansas National Guard under orders of Gov. Orval E. Faubus had been properly instructed.

'Felt Saddened'

"Few times in my life have I felt as saddened as when the obligation of my office required me to order the use of a force within a state to carry out the decisions of a federal court," Eisenhower wired Russell.

"My conviction is that had the police powers of the state of Arkansas been utilized not to frustrate the orders of the court but to support them, the ensuing violence and open disrespect for the law and for the federal judiciary would never have occurred.

"The Arkansas National Guard could have handled the situation with ease had it been instructed to do so."

In a rare burst of direct displeasure at a senator, Eisenhower also told Russell "I must say that I completely fail to comprehend your comparison of our troops to Hitler's storm troopers."

"In one case," the President said, "military power was used to further the ambitions and purposes of a ruthless dictator; in the other, to preserve the institutions of free government."

The President was referring to the order by Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies to integrate Little Rock's Central High School. Faubus called out the National Guard when school opened. Mobs surged around the school for days, and the Guardsmen prevented the entrance of nine Negro students.

Davies issued a temporary injunction which ordered Faubus to call off his troops. Faubus complied, and the President then issued a cease - and -desist proclamation calling on the citizens of 'EARLY-BIRD' PERSHING AFTER VOTES — Avra N. Pershing, Republican candidate for Westmoreland County court of common pleas, is wasting no time with his campaign. Pershing also already made several appearances at plant gates in Monessen, distributing political literature and shaking hands. Yesterday the former Greensburg High football star was at the Page Division plant of the American Chain and Cable Co. He distributed matches and cards from a basket under his arm. Pershing said Monessen workers have treated him with "courtesy" and interest. In the scene above, Ed Seftas, Monessen, is shown accepting Pershing's greetings.

Christianity Facing an Uphill Battle in Western Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP) — Christianity is facing an uphill battle in prosperous Western Europe.

A United Press survey shows Western Europe has registered no upsurge in religious interest comparable to that sweeping the United States..

Roman Catholic countries such as Portugal, Spain and Italy reported an increase in church interest and attendance.

But Holland, Austria and West Germany, all countries with a large proportion of Roman Catholics, say church attendance is down. The church attracts little interest in Protestant Sweden, but has made significant gains in Finland and is holding its own, if no more, in Denmark, Norway and Switzerland.

England and France both report heightened interest in religion. But his interest apparently has not yet led to a higher church attendance trend.

The state of Christianity country-by-country in Western Europe:

Holland: Both Roman Catholic and Protestant attendance has dropped sharply since the war, continuing a trend of pre-war days.

Austria: Roman Catholic Church officials say the situation is depressing. Nearly 95 per cent of tte nation's seven million people are Roman Catholic, but only 13 per cent in cities and 35 per cent in towns are active.

West Germany: Protestant church attendance rose sharply after the war but fell off as the wave of prosperity began rolling in 1950. The Roman Catholic Church's train of continuity and a close watch over its adherents have enabled it to hold off the challenge of material prosperity more successfully, Roman Catholic authorities said.

Great Britain: A notable increase in interest, which the Church of England is hoping to show in hard figures after a survey of church attendance next spring. The causes: short religious periods daily in all state schools; crusades by Billy Graham and other evangelical missions; servicemen receive more attention from their chaplains.

France: About 25 per cent of the Roman Catholic Church's 20 million adherents are said to be regular churchgoers while 60 per cent of the estimated 800,000 Protestants make a practice of regular church attendance. The Roman Catholic Church has been trying to revive its following among French workers.

Portugal: A religious upsurge that started 25 years ago has maintained its upward climb un-

Frame House Cracks Open In California

A six-room frame house cracked open in California last night when a corner of the foundation dropped four feet as the result of a mine cave-in.

Four persons in the house escaped injury when the structure suddenly split open around 9:30 p. m.

California police said the house was owned by Mrs. Pauline Jericho, 633 Hickory St. She told authorities she had just finished paying the last mortgage installment on the seven year old structure.

An area about 60 feet by 100 feet was affected by the cave-in, believed to have been caused by land movements in the old Vigilant Mine. A street in front of the house also buckled open.

Mrs. Jericho said the house was valued at $8,000. Authorities ordered the building vacated until the full extent of damage is determined.

Good Guys Always Win, Child Proves

EVERETT, Wash. (UP) — Anyone who watches westerns on TV knows the good guys always beat the bad guys.

Apparently George Edward Collins Jr., 20, hasn't been keeping up with the latest "tube" techniques —but eight - year - old Lee Crary has. And the youngster has put his man behind bars with a belt-chewing trick learned from his hero — Wild Bill Hickok.

Collins and his common - law wife, Katherine Myers, 21, were arraigned on a first - degree kidnaping charge here Friday. They must enter their pleas Oct. 3.

Collins admitted he kidnaped Lee son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Crary of Edmonds, Wash. Monday and held him captive until the lad got away Friday morning.

Collins had tied the youngster to a tree with his belt. But, as Lee described it, "I remembered how Wild Bill Hickok got loose on TV when he was tied up like that. So I worked my wrists loose and reached around with my teeth until I got that bar in the buckle to drop loose."

Lee, who had been the object of a search involving bloodhounds, a helicopter and more than 600 volunteers, then made his way to a road where he was found by a passing motorist who notified authorities. The boy was unharmed.

Collins and his wife, parents of a six-month-old child, refused the right of counsel at the arraignment, but the court appointed an attorney for each.

The woman signed a statement involving herself in the abduction plot. Her story that it had been planned for two months, however, contradicted Collins' signed account in which he said it was a "spur-of-the-moment deal."

Collins, a riveter, was arrested at the Everett home of his father by the FBI after the Crarys received a note demanding $10,000 ransom for the boy. The FBI would not tell how they traced Collins, but Lee's mother said her son had noted the license plates on the kidnap car. A crude kidnap plan was found in the man's wallet.

Reds Ask Big Four Parley

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —Western observers said today the United States undoubtedly will cold shoulder a Soviet feeler for a top-level Big Four conference on disarmament.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vassill V. Kuznetsov put out the feeler during a news conference here Friday.

"The Soviet government favors any constructive disarmament measures and takes a view that they should be examined at the highest levels," he said.

Western sources saw Kuznetsov's remarks as a bid for a new meeting at the Summit of the United States, Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia. The Western powers have been cold to previous feelers from Moscow and sources said the United States is not likely to change its position at this time.

Kuznetsov also said he believed a visit to Washington by Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov might prove useful. But he added he knew of no likelihood that any such visit might occur.

Disarmament, which may prove to be the major topic of discussion at the 12th General Assembly, formally takes the stage Monday with the meeting of the U.N. Disarmament Commission.

The commission will report to the General Assembly on the London talks conducted by the United States, Britain, Canada, France and Russia, meeting as the U.N.'s disarmament subcommittee.

When the General Assembly's first (main political) committee meets later in the week to decide on the order in which it will discuss pending issues, it is expected to give disarmament top priority.

Mellon Bank to Open Office in Park Center

A second Monessen office will be opened for business Wednesday by the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co.

The new office will be located in the Monessen Park Shopping Center. It will be in addition to the long-established office at 560 Donner Ave., which will continue to serve as the center of Mellon's business in the city.

The Park Shopping Center office will be in charge of Richard Pustelak, who has been promoted to administrative assistant. Three employes will staff the office, which will offer all of Mellon's banking services.

There will be four teller windows in the new location, but only two will be used for the time being. The building is being leased by the banking firm from the Adamsburg Realty Co.

The new office will operate under the same officers as those at the downtown site. They are John Abernethy, assistant vice-president and Monessen manager; Fred Stockus, assistant manager and Rose M. Paterline, assistant manager. Ninteen employes and three officers work out of Mellon's downtown location.

In announcing the new city office, Abernethy said Mellon has recognized the city's population, growth and expansion.

"Those two factors prompted our decision to open a second office to accommodate our customers," Abernethy said.

Locked Out of Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — A police department employe who found himself locked out of a new jailhouse where he was sent to clean up called a policeman to let him in. The policeman couldn't get in either, summoned a locksmith.

Group Claims Voting Rigged; Appeal Planned

WASHINGTON (UP) — Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts today signed an order blocking election of officers at the Teamsters' union convention in Miami Beach, Fla., next week.

Teamsters attorneys prepared to move swiftly and appeal Letts' directive as soon as it's official.

A three - judge appellate court was alerted for a hearing on the union's plea.

Teamsters President Dave Beck reversed himself today and said in Miami the union would recognize Letts' decision. Beck said Friday the Teamsters would go ahead with the election despite the court's move.

The Executive Board was expected to meet sometime today on call from outgoing President Dave Beck. But there was apparent tension among union leaders who anxiously awaited word on the outcome of an appeal of District Judge F. Dickenson Letts' order to the Circuit Court of Appeal in Washington. Teamster attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue planned to appeal the ruling as soon as Judge Letts signed the order at mid morning.

Stops Campaign

The federal court order stalemated the confident campaign of James R. Hoffa for the $50,000-a-year presidency of the nation's largest union.

It was learned here that a report will be made to the Executive Board of the union sometime today recommending the ouster of all officers of six New York locals of the Teamsters.

The locals in question were those set up by racketeers Johnny Dio and Tony Corrallo. Union officials would not confirm the report Friday night but it apparently came from David Kaplan, a Washington labor economist, who was hired by the Teamsters to study the locals in the New York area, especially the so-called "paper locals."

The report, it was learned, found the locals were "substandard" and were near bankruptcy because revenue going to the union was being used almost completely for salaries and expenses.

Letts acted after 13 rank-and-file New York Teamsters filed suit asking for a delay in the convention contest. The 13 charged the election was rigged to guarantee that Midwest Teamsters head James R. Hoffa would step into Beck's shoes as union boss.

Three Cars and Truck Involved In Area Crash

Three cars and a truck were involved in an accident about 11:45 last night on Route 31 near West Newton, state police reported today.

According to reports, a car driven by Don Williams, 18, of R. D., Charleroi, and a truck operated by Rupert Holland, 42, of Norfolk, Va., were traveling west on the highway when they collided.

Two cars traveling east collided when their drivers attempted to avoid the other mishap. The drivers were Mike Albert, 31, of Thompson Ave., Donora, and Mary Horner, of R. D., West Newton, who suffered slight head cuts.

Two passengers in the Williams machine, Dolores Williams, 14, Charleroi, and Aleta Campbell, 18, Finleyville, suffered minor injuries. They were treated at Monongahela Memorial Hospital and released.

Total damage was estimated at $750.

Low Bidder on Reconstruction Of Schoonmaker

An unofficial low bid of $205,792 was submitted to the state Highway Department yesterday for the reconstruction of Schoonmaker Ave. in Monessen from 6th St. to a point on 17th St.

The bid was presented in Harrisburg by the Frank Donatelli Co., Pittsburgh.

The project covers .76 of a mile of Schoonmaker Ave., which carries Route 906 south through the city. The avenue will be widened and paved with concrete.

State Highway Department officials previously predicted that actual construction will begin this fall or early spring.

In about two weeks, the state also plans to begin blacktopping the entire length of Donner Ave.

Probers Hit Hoffa's Finances

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee today winds up a second investigation of Midwest Teamster boss James R. Hoffa with another volley of evidence on his financial operations.

The committee, in an unusual Saturday session, dug back into how Hoffa borrowed $50,000 from two businessmen, who obtained loans from or through the Teamsters Union which Hoffa hopes to head.

The committee ordered Detroit real estate promoter Henry Lower who failed to appear earlier because of illness, to testify on how Hoffa allegedly helped him borrow $75,000 from the Teamsters' bank —and how he then loaned Hoffa $25,000. However, his appearance was doubtful.

If Lower failed to appear, the committee expected to resume questioning of William E. Bufalino head of "juke box" Teamster local 985 in Detroit.

Bufalino, an attorney, was described Friday as a business associate of "some of the most notorious hoodlums in the country."

Also to testify was New York real estate man Harold Mark, who according to earlier testimony borrowed $25,000 from Hoffa's local 299 in Detroit and lent it back to

THE WORK BENCHES OF GOD

Christians are not turned out on assembly lines.

The skill and patience of many a human soul, the blueprint of Christ's own example, and the unseen but mighty craftsmanship of the Creator Himself—these over the decades bring forth a noble Christian life.

There must be understanding, guidance, faith. There must be a Christian home with sincere, loving parents. There must be prayer, the Bible, worship, thought, study. And at length practice and persistence must win many a victory over self before the world begins to recognize the hand of God in the life of a man.

Nearby in the church you will choose, there are busy hands at the work benches of God.

And room for more—your child's and your own!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A picnic lunch was served by the Wilkinsons at long tables set in the garden of their home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Greubels of Derry displayed about 100 varieties of dahlias from their nursery gardens, naming each variety and explaining the growth and care of the flowers.

In the afternoon, a hayride was arranged for the entire group. The visitors were taken over most of the farm which covers hundreds of acres and includes all kinds of trees, shrubs and flowers.

The group from Perryopolis included Mrs. Russel Blair, club president, Mrs. Edna Blair, Mary Allison, Edna Ulsh, Zella Townsend, Hallie F. Rolison, Mrs. Simon Rider, and Jimmy Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Blair, who drove the Blair car.

Hoffa without security. Hoffa testified Aug. 20 that Mark also borrowed $62,500 from his local and from local 337 headed by Hoffa's friend Owen (Bert) Brennan in Detroit.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen the committee wanted more details of Hoffa's connection with Lower's real estate promotion called "Sun Valley," near Orlando, Fla. Hoffa testified last month he holds an option to buy a share of the project. Lots in the project are advertised in Teamster publications and sold by Teamster business agents.

Bufalino testified only briefly Friday. Kennedy charged he became president of a juke box distribution firm in 1947 which was owned by a group of hoodlums, including Bufalino's uncle Angelo Meli, with a total of more than 40 arrests.

der the prodding of organized Roman Catholic action.

Spain: Interest in religion shot up sharply following the end of the civil war in 1939 and the trend is continuing.

Italy: Afternoon and evening masses were instituted in 1953 and there has been a distinct increase in church attendance. One Roman Catholic Church source attributed the rise to "...a natural reaction to the horrors of war with the faithful feeling the increased necessity of getting closer to God."

Scandinavia: Nine out of 10 Finns are members of the Evangelical Lutheran Church and church attendance is increasing. In Norway, only 3 per cent of the Protestant believers, who comprise 98 per cent of the population, attend church regularly. Many more follow services by radio. About 3 per cent of Danes also attend church regularly, although 95 per cent are members of the Danish state church, which is Lutheran - Evangelic. In Sweden, religious interest has dropped steadily since the war and churchmen blame it on a high standard of living.

Switzerland: Religion is neither winning new adherents nor losing old ones among the Roman Catholic and Protestant populations.

Little Rock to stop interference with the court's school integration order.

On the basis of reports from the Justice Department, the President determined that integration could not be accomplished under Arkansas authority. He ordered federal troops into the area to see that law and order prevailed and the court's orders were enforced.

Russell, who publicly had stayed out of the Little Rock squabble until Friday, telegraphed the President a message saying that "as a citizen, as a senator of the United States and as chairman of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, I must vigorously protest the highhanded and illegal methods being employed by the armed forces of the United States under your command who are carrying out your orders to mix the races in the public schools of Little Rock, Arkansas."

Russell said the troops of the 101st Airborne Division were "disregarding and overriding the elementary rights of American citizens by applying tactics which must have been copied from the manual issued the officers of Hitler's storm troopers."

A Knotty Problem

THE LOCATION of the sewage treatment plant which Monessen must eventually construct continues to be one of the knottier problems confronting the various bodies concerned with the city's future development.

The topography of the city seems to require that the sewage plant be located somewhere at the extreme northeast corner. But this is the area which the planning officials have marked for the first major redevelopment program.

This program includes a complete revision of the eastern entrance to Monessen, including a relocation of the Monessen-Webster highway (Route 906) which the state is planning to expand into a four-lane thoroughfare.

From an aesthetic point of view it seems desirable that a sewage plant should not be a conspicuous element of this new approach to Monessen. But the engineers responsible for the sewage system are naturally concerned that its costs of construction and operation should be as low as possible. At best these costs will be high enough.

We are wondering if enough has yet been done to explore the possibilities of joint sewage treatment by several of the communities in this segment of the Monongahela Valley.

Is it either necessary or desirable that Fayette City, Belle Vernon, Charleroi, Monessen and Donora should each treat their sewage individually in separate plants? Has anybody seriously inquired into the practicality of some cooperative undertaking similar to that underway in Allegheny County?

Before the public officials of the various Valley communities embark on these costly projects, we think they owe it to their citizens and taxpayers to make sure that they cannot do a better job together than they can do separately.

But if Monessen must go it alone, we think any decision as to the location of the plant cannot be left exclusively in the hands of sanitary engineers. It must be made within the framework of the community's overall needs and ambitions.

Lippmann Quibbles

WALTER Lippmann, it seems to us, descends to an uncharacteristic quibble in his article for this page today in which he criticizes President Eisenhower's address on the Little Rock incident.

The President, says the very logical Mr. Lippmann, is correct in using the federal troops in Little Rock. But he should have explained that he is using them, not to suppress mob violence, but because Governor Faubus nullified the law which in turn led to the violence.

This is straining at gnats. While it is necessary, of course, for the President to base his actions on a firm legal foundation, it does not seem to us to be of crucial importance to decide whether the chicken had to come before the egg.

It has been evident from the start that the original and most culpable trouble-maker in the whole episode is Governor Faubus, who did indeed employ the National Guard to nullify the law. Had he used the Guard to protect law-abiders against the law-breakers, there is reason to think that the Central High School would have been integrated without serious difficulty. Governor Faubus' action was an invitation to the mob to do its worst. And it was when this invitation was accepted last Monday that it became essential for the President to act decisively.

Those who are criticizing the President, including Mr. Lippmann, have an obligation to say what he should have done differently. Given Governor Faubus' conduct, what could Mr. Eisenhower have done that he has not done to make sure the federal court was obeyed?

Mr. Lippmann is a serious and responsible student of public affairs who can usually illuminate the corners of difficult questions. So it is disappointing in this momentous business to find him picking legal lint.

A Crucial Test

THE CONVENTION of the Teamsters Union in Miami next week seems likely to be one of the most carefully watched union gatherings in years.

Because of the stubborn persistence of James Hoffa and his supporters, the convention shapes up pretty much as a test to see whether, in a showdown, the membership of a union can really get rid of corrupt leaders through the normal internal processes.

It may not be too much to say that what happens at Miami is going to have great influence both on the union movement and on future legislation affecting unions. Most lawmakers are reluctant to impose further restrictions on unions. But if it is shown that one of the largest and most powerful of all unions can be subjected indefinitely to corrupt control, then undoubtedly a case can be made for new laws to protect both union members and the general public interest.

The news from Miami next week promises to make interesting reading.

Today and Tomorrow—

Says Ike Misstated U. S. Case

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The President's address on Tuesday evening, explaining why he is using federal troops in Arkansas, must be judged, I believe, a serious failure to state the real case of the United States government.

Mr. Lippmann

The case, as the President put it, omits entirely the crucial fact that the defiance of the federal court began not with the mobs outside the school building but with the orders of Governor Faubus to the Arkansas National Guard. Because of this omission the President has made a weak case, and has laid himself open to the charge that he is doing something which he promised not to do — namely, to impose integration with federal troops.

Thus, in his second paragraph, he says that "disorderly mobs have deliberately prevented the carrying out of proper orders from a federal court." In fact, it was the National Guard which prevented the carrying out of the orders of the court.

He goes on to say that "whenever normal agencies prove inadequate to the task" of enforcing the law and preserving order, it becomes necessary for the federal government to act. But what happened in Arkansas was not that the normal agencies were inadequate. It was that the Governor had ordered the state troops to nullify the law.

Law Nullified

The address is full of statements that because of mobs, agitators, misguided persons, "the orders of the court have been frustrated." The President pictures himself as one reluctantly compelled to go to the assistance of the state of Arkansas which was not strong enough to preserve order.

The fact is that the disorder broke out after the Governor had first nullified the law with his troops, and had then withdrawn the troops in the face of the mob that was assembling, bent on nullifying the law.

The crucial fact in Arkansas is that the Governor was determined to use the National Guard for the unlawful purpose of preventing integration in Little Rock. The necessity for federal intervention arose directly from this open defiance of the law. As for the National Guard, owing to the Governor's orders, was unavailable for the task of enforcing law and preserving order, the intervention of the federal government was required.

At the Newport conference, when the President saw Gov. Faubus, the essential question was not whether the Governor would withdraw the troops. It was whether he would change his orders to the troops. If there was no understanding reached on this central point, why were we led to believe that the conference was "constructive?"

Aides Criticized

There is every reason to suppose that the President's address was written for him while he was travelling back and forth to Newport. He was dependent on his advisors in Washington. It is necessary to say that these advisors have served him badly, and that he ought to draw around him some wiser and some stronger men.

It is necessary to say also that during this grave business he ought not to be away from Washington, but at the center of things where he can really keep himself informed and advised.

There is no use pretending that a matter of such moment and complexity can be handled by remote control.

It's a Fact—

The territory of Hawaii consists of 20 islands. It is more than two thousand miles from its nearest mainland point, San Francisco.

Merry-Go-Round—

Little Rock Hard on U. S.

By DREW PEARSON

Editor's Note: Drew Pearson, writing from the Near East, gives some ideas on Little Rock and segregation.)

AMMAN, Jordan — If you're a U. S. Information officer in the Near East these days trying to win friends for the USA, you have a problem. The problem is how to counteract Little Rock.

Mr. Pearson

It's your job to make the United States appear to be the friend of the Arabs, the champion of underprivileged people. Personally, you believe this to be true. But what can you write or say to convince the Arab public when it is faced with pictures of a Nashville, Tenn., schoolhouse bombed and blasted because one Negro child was admitted, of a lone Negro child sitting in the back row of a Tennessee classroom, of Negro students in Little Rock being turned back by state troopers, of a 15-year-old Negro girl in Charlotte, N. C., telling how she wanted to be a nurse but finally gave up

With the pictures are news stories. . .Stories of violence, bitterness, race hatred against a people because of the color of their skin. People in this part of the world generally have colored skin, too — brown. In fact, two-thirds of the world is black, brown or yellow.

There is no Soviet press here. There doesn't have to be. The pictures, the straight news accounts tell their own story.

Alongside the news are pictures of Ike — smiling, golfing, yachting, always smiling. If you're a U. S. Information officer or even an ordinary American who likes to have people think well of his country, you can't help wishing that Ike at least sometimes would not smile.

Ike Ducked Trouble

Viewing the integration bitterness of Little Rock from halfway around the world, my memory goes back to another bitter scene when troops were marched down Pennsylvania Ave. to clear 20,000 destitute veterans of World War I out of the nation's capital.

I was a young reporter then. It was the first time I saw Dwight D. Eisenhower, then an officer on the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army.

The veterans at first arrived in a mere trickle. They wanted Congress to pass a bonus. Gradually, slowly, their number grew. Camped out on the flats of Anacostia, they put up shacks, started soup kitchens. Friendly merchants contributed to their support.

Eisenhower was appointed liaison man for the Army with local D. C. police, to keep General MacArthur informed. We used to see him in the District of Columbia Building, sitting in the press room reading westerns. He kept away from Anacostia, obviously was not looking for trouble.

But while Ike kept away from trouble, trouble grew in Washington. The bonus army swelled from a few hundred men to several thousand. They took over vacant buildings along Pennsylvania Ave. One night they started marching on Congress. For the first time in history three drawbridges across the Anacostia River were raised, to block them.

It was at this point that President Hoover called out the Army. Eisenhower, the genial, trouble-ducking liaison officer between the Army and the police, had not seen what might develop; so tanks, tear gas, and cavalry brandishing sabres advanced on defenseless veterans along Pennsylvania Ave.

Came Again

That was in July 1932. A few months later, as Roosevelt entered the White House, the bonus army began coming again. But FDR sent them to near-by Fort Hunt, arranged to give them clothes and transportation back home. They were not allowed to pile up in Washington.

I have sometimes thought of this as I have watched Eisenhower in later years. And as the racial crisis built up, I sometimes wondered why the President did not move to head off trouble early, why he did not call a meeting of southern governors immediately after the Supreme Court 1954 school decision, why he didn't summon southern leaders to the White House to use his great prestige for solution of this deeply difficult problem.

But Ike just didn't seem to see the bitterness growing, or how extremists were getting the upper hand; that a crisis was building up which might get completely out of hand. Either he just doesn't like trouble, or he's just too nice a guy.

Situation Drifts

So for three years the situation drifted — and got worse. Last June, as the governors of the 48 states gathered at Williamsburg, Va., in a state already charged with integration bitterness, the President went to Williamsburg but said nothing about the problem uppermost in gubernatorial minds. Instead, he proposed turning federal power over to the states.

"A distinguished American scholar (Prof. Leonard White of the University of Chicago)" he told the governors at Williamsburg, "has recently counseled that in the measurable future the states are sure to generate into powerless satellites of the federal government."

Activities at Little Rock and in the south are drifting toward exactly what Ike once warned against.

The Cynic's Corner—

"Say, what ever happened to that monumental contribution to mankind you were going to make, before we were married?"

Notes and Comment—

The Stakes Are High In Segregation Fight

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

Anyone who has thought seriously about what has been happening at Little Rock this week and has tried to see a way through to the end of this whole business of racial adjustment has had some disquieting hours. I know I have.

If my own reactions are at all typical — and I suspect they may be — the American people have been tortured this week by some emotional tugs and jerks the like of which they have not experienced since the war years. As I read the papers and watched the television and listened to the President, I was pulled from anger to sadness, from disgust to pity, from anxiety to confidence and from shame to pride.

The mischievous conduct of Governor Faubus, the wishy-washy statements by both him and the President after their Newport meeting, the barbaric cruelty of the white goons kicking a defenseless Negro, the hellcat shriek of a young white schoolgirl, the calm deliberation of a federal judge, the measured words of the President as he explained his decisions to the people — these are a few of the images that keep criss-crossing the mind.

Underneath it all runs this anxiety as to whether the nation can meet such a crisis and emerge from it as strong as we know it has to be in today's world.

Makes Comparison

Bruce Catton, one of the leading popular writers on the Civil War period, wrote a piece for the New York Herald-Tribune the other day in which he drew some parallels and cited the differences between Fort Sumpter and Little Rock.

"Then, as now," he said, "there was at the bottom of the whole dispute a tragic problem in race relations which was so thorny and so charged with emotion that ordinary democratic processes seemed unable to cope with it."

President Eisenhower felt he had to take control in Little Rock for much the same reason that President Lincoln felt a serious effort had to be made to relieve Fort Sumpter. The issue at Little Rock is not segregation anymore than the issue at Fort Sumpter was slavery. The issue is the ability of a large and diverse nation to hold itself together under a system of law while it strives for the solution of serious differences among its people.

Segregation in 1957, like slavery in 1861, is a question which many people in the south are not willing to submit to rational discussion and the processes of law. They are not prepared to have the matter settled except on their own terms, and it does not faze them to demonstrate that these terms conflict with the nation's basic principle that all men are created equal.

Wrong Leadership

People in this frame of mind are candidates for the wrong kind of leadership. The Confederacy was built on such leadership, which promised to give the people something that their own reason ought to have told them they shouldn't have. Nullification led to secession and secession to Fort Sumpter, and almost before the country knew what was happening the four-year butchery had started.

No one is suggesting that we are on the brink of civil war. Except for a couple of screwball southern politicians, nobody is thinking in those terms.

But we almost certainly are at a point from which we could drift into an unmanageable sequence of events, the one leading logically enough to the other but altogether leading somewhere that none of us wants to go.

Can we check this drift now? In Mr. Catton's phrase, are our normal processes sufficient to cope with it?

I'm pretty sure they are. But I'm also sure that there is nothing automatic and guaranteed about it. It will take a real effort of conscious will on the part of all of us, and particularly by the people at the extremes of the segregation issue, to make a change of course and steer away from the abyss.

What do we win if we succeed? Well, another keystone in the great arch of human brotherhood which man has been constructing so laboriously since the beginning of history.

And what do we lose if we fail? Well, maybe everything that America has contributed to this effort.

First Hike of New Season Rewarding

By JOHN H. DAY

During the night the calendar pulled a fast one. We came awake to find that another summer had gone and the first sunrise of fall was sending red-gold streamers through the eastward windows. The early morning haze soon lifted, revealing a clear, warmish day that fairly pulled me into hiking togs and into the countryside. Our old friend, the songsparrow, struck up a lively chant from the fencerow behind the house. He was the first songster to pipe the new year aboard last March and will still be at his post when the old fellow goes over the side in late November.

We may as well accept the fact that fall has arrived and the year is turning. The evidence is everywhere at hand. Gum trees stand out like flaming red candles against the still-green forest background. Forest floors are already littered with the first fallen leaves, while every breeze brings a new allotment floating earthward.

It is interesting to note how the outdoor production lines speed up when the harvest moon nears. Wasps about the eaves of outbuildings display a feverish haste to finish their paper houses and have done with their contracts. Strikes and lockouts and portal to portal disputes are not on the business agenda of these winged labor battalions. Uncle Hairy caterpillars bustle across the roadways, eager to find the proper site and complete their winter headquarters. Burdock and teazel and other pests which came to grief before the scythe and brush hook waste no time now in producing foliage. They shove up one lowly fruiting branch, making certain that seed is set and the family line continued.

Dark Timberland

I drove to the wooded hillside some five miles up the valley and prepared for a frontal assault on this mysterious area, which has intrigued me since I first noticed the steep dark timberland lying safe behind the wide stream moat which protects its approaches. Knee boots solved the problem of the stream, which I crossed where a shallow rip breaks around an inland. Near this point is a station of the rather rare wild hyacinth, whose location is marked by three tremendous sycamores.

Making good use of the walking stick, I plunged into the timber and drove upward, following a switch back progress which eased the grade. The lower reaches are heavily timbered with hard maple. Colonies of the common wild ginger were all about and I saw several clumps of Goldie fern, with some of the fronds fully three feet long. Here also were the little ebony spleenwort and the evergreen Christmas fern.

Farther up a sturdy colony of young beech dressed up the woodland scene. The beech is a natty, well-groomed citizen. About the roots of these trees were many of the odd parasitic plants called beech drops, which feed on the roots of this gray-barked tree. I came across a pale green caterpillar, rather a big fellow, with his back covered by fearsome branching spines, and with a striking pink and white lateral stripe. I took him along for later identification and he turned out to be the larva of the common lo moth. I handled him with care since those spines can sting painfully.

Many Migrant Birds

Finally after much puffing and many halts I achieved the upper bench of this magnificent woodland and sprawled for a time at the base of a convenient tree. There were many birds about, probably migrants. A pair of nuthatches came by and policed the upper limbs above my head. Suddenly a tremendous racket in the dry leaves behind me turned out to be a very fat and very embarrassed groundhog. He tried to out bluff me when discovered but I waited him out and he finally retreated in great confusion.

Soon the quiet was again rudely shattered by a vociferous fox squirrel, who preached me a Sunday sermon full of fire and brimstone from a pulpit halfway up a tall black oak. The sun etched this fellow in full beauty against the dark tree trunk. Cut off a squirrel's tail and his conversation wouldn't be worth a nickel. This big brown fellow made all his points by an emphatic jerk of his expressive brush.

When the entertainment possibilities of that spot seemed exhausted I rambled about over several acres of the wooded hilltop and then struck back down through the trees to the creek. It was a process of dig in the heels and hope for the best, but I finally negotiated the steep descent with no mishaps, picking up one interesting trophy along the way. This was the fungous member of the puffball clan known as the earth star. The hard outer skin had split into seven points, spread out starlike among the leaves, with the small puffball in the center.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Notre Dame Fans 'Hoping' Today

This afternoon Notre Dame football fans all over the country will be holding their breath until the final whistle sounds in the Irish-Purdue game . . . Main reason for such action stems from the ND faithful wondering if its going to be another long season like '56 or will the South Benders start coming into their own again after their worst season . . . During a scrimmage against the frosh last week the Notre Dame varsity registered a convincing 31-6 victory and observers said the Irish regulars looked "good". . . . Two district products, Buddy Ward, of German Township and Bob Gaydos of Donora, will be in the starting lineup for Terry Brennan's lads. Ward at halfback and Gaydos at a guard post.

* * *

After viewing last week's Pitt-Oklahoma game Bellmar Coach Bap Manzini said, "that Oklahoma fancy stuff is the answer to our sputtering offense" . . . Perhaps Bap said it jokingly but if he thought about it seriously he just might spring some "Sooner Surprises" on Penn Joint's Indians . . . Incidentally, a fair-sized Bellmar contingent treked to Pitt Stadium last week to witness that Pitt game, including Board President Blandon Bulger, Board Secretary Ted Kuhn, Manzini, one of his assistants Tom Benjor and ex-'Cane gridder Joe Sarra, who keeps in close touch with Bellmar athletics . . . Speaking of trip-makers, 'Hound coach Armand Niccolai, and Rostraver's Jim Weir, Ed Hogan and Jim Leeper, attended a rules clinic in Greensburg this week.

Ex-Greyhound May Replace Ex-Dragon

Donora's Joe Bozik, who was going great for Lafayette College as the starting quarterback, will probably miss the entire season due to a broken left leg but the Monongahela Valley may still be represented in the Maroon starting backfield in Monessen's Wayne Cipriani . . . He is one of three candidates being considered for the job . . . Despite the fact that he weighs only 165 to another hopeful's 180 . . . Senior center Ed Sullivan, former McKeesport High standout, will co-captain Notre Dame this afternoon against Purdue along with Dick Prendergast, senior end from Homewood, Ill. . . . Ernie Benedict, Jefferson High School wrestling coach has been named president of the Greene County Coaches Association, succeeding Steve Stuvek of Carmichaels.

* * *

Former West Virginia U. quarterback Fred Wyant has been cut loose by the Washington Redskins and picked up by the Toronto team of the Canadian League . . . By the way, did you notice that of all the players released by the Steelers' Buddy Parker, only one was picked up, Ted Marchibroda, by the Chicago Cardinals . . . Coach Jim Tatum, who is rapidly building North Carolina back into grid prominence, greeted no less than 69 freshman candidates this season of which 22 were named to various all-state teams last season . . . A Westmoreland County basketball rules clinic will be held Thursday night, Oct. 10 at 7:30 o'clock . . . Lou Filino, county rules interpreter, will conduct the sessions.

Local Miss on Denison Golf Team

Janie Williams, classy local feminine golfer has made the Denison University girls intercollegiate golf team and expects to play two matches this fall and eight or nine in the spring . . . She reports the course there is really tough . . . While on the golf subject, don't forget the Tri-Am at Monongahela Valley Country Club tomorrow afternoon . . . CIO Local 1229 will take its championship local PONY League team and a Little League squad "out on the town" Oct. 5. First on the agenda is a dinner date at Tony Calderone's Twin Coaches and then a bus trip to Pittsburgh to see the Steeler-Cleveland Browns game . . . 1229 President Tony Ortolona and Mayor Hugo Parente will accompany the boys on the trip in appreciation of their diamond efforts this past season.

High School Setting Style for College, Pros

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

High school football, shifting back to a ball control type of game, is setting a style which the college and pros will be forced to follow, according to Columbia coach Buff Donelli.

"Ball control is back with a vengeance," Buff says. "It's a game where everybody is looking for three or four yards per play with a great de-emphasis on passing. It has to change college and pro football because we just aren't getting the good passers any more due to the accent on ball control."

Maybe you hadn't noticed, but the Milwaukee victory in the National League pennant race gave the West its first flag in more than a decade. The 1946 Cards were the last western outfit to win and since then the Dodgers took six, the Giants two and the Phillies and Braves each one . . . the erstwhile Boston Braves, that is.

Brother Against Brother

Our growing boys: Fred Olm, a sophomore guard on the Michigan football team, reported at 235 pounds, will play at 210 but wants to wrestle this winter at 220. He's 18 years old. Tim Hull, a Kansas tackle, reported at 265—but, after all, he's 21.

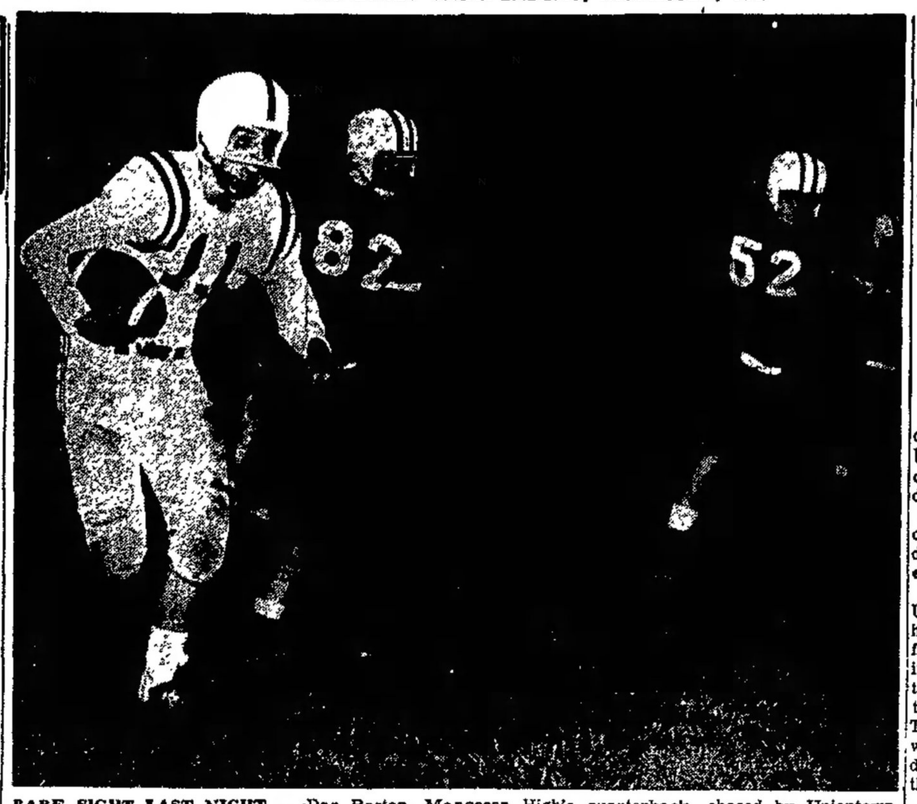
Baseball is really in a hole now. They're putting television sets in the Meramec Caverns at Stanton, Mo., so tourists can see the games while viewing Mother Nature's formations. But they admit they couldn't buck the Series "Even if we had the formations of Marilyn Monroe and Sophia Loren."

The Sabal family can't lose when Notre Dame plays Purdue on the gridiron today. Al Sabal is a Notre Dame guard and his brother, Ron, plays the same position for Purdue. And did you ever see brothers tee off on each other?

Willie The Jet

With more than a million youngsters engaged in some form of contact football, the National Pop Warner Conference of Philadelphia has available a free booklet to help guard against injuries and exploitation. It's a must among the 10-13 year age group playing tackle football in 266 cities.

Tom Gola comes back to the Philadelphia Warriors shortly after the NBA basketball season gets underway but the Boston Celtics still figure to win the championship. The experts predict that Boston and Philadelphia will walk away from Syracuse and New York in the Eastern Division. St. Louis and Cincinnati figure a toss-up in the West.



RARE SIGHT LAST NIGHT — Dan Barton, Monessen High's quarterback, chased by Uniontown defenders as he eats up 20 yards before being forced out of bounds in the final quarter last night during the 27-0 loss to the Raiders here last night, running from punt formation. Barton's run, longest of the game against the rugged Red Raider defense, came during an 82-yard Monessen drive which fell short on the Uniontown 12.

Bellmar High Gridders Battle Penn Joint Eleven Away Tonight

Bellmar High School's Hurricane eleven travels to Penn Joint High School (near Manor) tonight for an intersectional clash with the Class A Indians. Kickoff time is 8 o'clock.

Coach Bap Manzini of the 'Canes who has seen his charges lose to Perry 26-6 and then cap a 6-0 decision has made a few lineup changes due mainly to injuries.

For tonight's clash he plans on starting an eleven that looks something like this: Percy Cranford and Lou Comadena or Andy Stefanik at ends, Gary Grant and Ron Schmidt or Bill Barker at tackles, Burgess, O'Toole or Ken Waugaman at the guards, Bill Mullen at center, up front.

In the backfield it'll be Ron Coates at quarterback replacing Larry Petras with Ralph Greco and Larry Rankin or Milt Duptee at the halves and piledriving Reggie Kostelac at full.

Although losing their first two games, Penn Joint can score as evidenced by last week's 31-20 loss to Scottdale.

Coach Regis Kelly of the Indians will start a lineup of Lutz and Meneghini at ends, Kosoglow and Hopkinson at tackles, Koontz and T. Depalma at guards, Yeckel at center on the line in front of a backfield of Harchelroad at quarter, Istanish and Bartoletti at halfbacks and Blank at fullback.

Penn uses mainly a passing offense with Harchelroad an excellent aerialist using Lutz as his favorite target. Harchelroad is also a top-notch runner.

Uniontown Eleven Too Much for Flu-ridden 'Hounds in 27-0 Win

Red Raiders Score in First Three Minutes, Go on to Easy Victory

Monessen High School's flu-ridden Greyhound gridders fought gamely but in vain against a powerful Uniontown eleven before bowing by a lopsided 27-0 count before 4,000 fans at the Stadium here last night.

Only two minutes and 20 seconds had gone by when it was evident the locals were in for a rough evening.

Following the first series of Uniontown downs when the locals held the Red Raiders, Ken Fairfax, speedy back for the visitors, intercepted a Greyhound pass on the Monessen 36 yard line and returned it 24 yards to the locals' 12. Two plays later Gene Chambers went over left guard for a touchdown and Bill Munsey plunged for the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Raiders Score Again

Early in the second period following a Monessen punt to the Uniontown 23 yard line, which was downed without a runback, the visitors started a drive which didn't stop until another touchdown had been registered.

Runs of 21, 14 and 34 yards by fullback Frank Platz and halfback Bill Munsey, the first two dashes by Platz putting the ball on the Monessen three, set up the score. Two plays later, Sanford Stephens, Uniontown's outstanding quarterback, who ranks with the finest ever to appear at the local stadium sneaked over from the one and then tossed a pass to end Joe Hrezo for the extra point and a 14-0 count.

Later in the second quarter Stephens showed his tremendous running ability by returning a Dan Barton pass 35 yards to the Uniontown 15. Repeated cracks at the line put the ball one the 10 from where Stephens hit end Harrison Vail with a touchdown pass. The extra point was no good and the first half 20-0 score was recorded.

Monessen battled the visitors on even terms throughout the third quarter although having to hold Uniontown at the one and then seeing a pass intercepted by Chuck Haines, a sub halfback who dashed 30 yards to paydirt. Stephens passed to Chambers for the extra point and the final 27-0 score.

'Hound Drive Stopped

There was no scoring in the fourth quarter although Monessen took off on a 82-yard drive after stopping. Uniontown at the six with some fine defensive play, before being stopped in return by the Raiders on the 12-yard line.

Head Coach Armand Niccolai of the locals offered no excuses but reported that at least 16 members of the MHS squad had suffered from attacks of flu with only 15 subs dressed for the game. Such talented reserves as Carl Payne and Jim Lewitsky missed the game completely.

Monessen led in first downs, surprisingly enough, 10-8.

College Grid Season Opens

By TIM MORIARTY

The Big Ten's "Big M's"—Michigan, Michigan State and Minnesota—will be on the spot today when they open their drives for national recognition against comparatively weak sisters.

All three teams ranked high in the first United Press ratings of the new college football season, so now they must prove they deserve their berths.

Michigan State's Spartans, rated as the nation's No. 4 team before they called their first play of the campaign, kick off the Big Ten schedule against Indiana as a 21-point favorite. Minnesota (No. 5) and Michigan (No. 6) open their seasons against Pacific Coast Conference rivals.

The powerful Gophers are 13-point favorites over Washington at Minneapolis, while Michigan is picked to defeat Southern California by at least 14 points at Los Angeles.

Another Big Ten - PCC pairing brings together Northwestern and Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif. This even-money tussle will be nationally televised (NBC) starting at 4:45 p.m. e.d.t.

Bentleyville Wins, 14-0

MARIANNA, Sept. 28—Bentleyville tallied in the second and fourth periods here yesterday to defeat West Beth, 14-0, in a game that found the home team reaching the visitors five and 10-yard lines without scoring.

Charleroi Nips Donora, 19-14, in Final Minutes

Ron Cosner, Charleroi High quarterback, who had been in a sickbed earlier in the week, hit end Tim Lee with a 25-yard pass with only 1:25 remaining in the game to nip Donora in a 19-14 Big Five Conference thriller at Donora last night.

A desperate Donora rally in the waning seconds fell short when Charleroi intercepted a second pass after the first, from Quarterback Dave Russell had connected with Angelo Dabiero on a 46-yarder to the Charleroi 14.

The Cougars, who had an 18-8 first down margin, scored in the first period when Bob Daugherty threw a running pass to Uhlman from the one-yard line. A 52-yard pass play from Cosner to Ollie Payne set up the opportunity.

DHS scored twice in the second period with Russell tossing to Hal Rice for 37 years and Elroy Ramirez for seven.

A poor Donora punt set up the next Cougar six-pointer with Cosner's pass to Payne eating up the final 23 yards to paydirt with 6:28 remaining.

CHS, which had several scoring threats throttled, had an 18-8 first down margin. Charleroi and Monessen are now tied for the first in the Valley Conference with one win apiece.

Score by periods:

Charleroi	6	0	0	13	—19
Donora	0	14	0	0	—14

Touchdowns: Charleroi — Uhlman, Payne, Lee; Donora — Ramirez, Rice. Extra Points: Charleroi — Cosner (placement); Donora — Russell 2 (placements). Officials — Graham, Markovich, Palumbo.

Clairton Clobbers Monongahela, 38-6

Ed Billy and Roy Hamlin scored twice for the Clairton Bears last night as they downed the Monongahela High Wildcats, 38-6 before 5,500 fans at Clairton.

It was the third win of the season for Neil Brown's lads but the first in Class AA competition. Monongahela has now won one and lost two.

Billy went four off tackle for his first tally and then took a 22-yard pass from Bob Hecht on the goal line for another.

Hamlin went two yards for one score and took a 10-yard aerial from Hecht and then ran 47 more for his other one.

Most sensational run of the night was Jerry Smoyer's 60-yard gallop with a punt return for another six-pointer. The other Clairton TD was made by Ron Lancaster on an 11-yard end run.

Jimmy Robertson went two yards to pay dirt in the last stanza to avert a shutout for Monongahela.

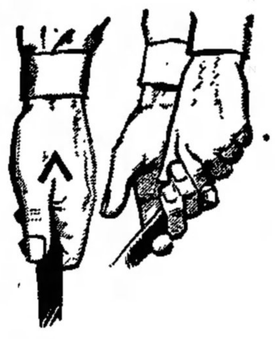
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Grip Club Firmly

A tight grip only leads to shot-wrecking tension. The grip to use is pictured today — the Vardon overlapping grip.

First, sole the club flat on the ground, then let the handle lie diagonally across your left hand, more on the fingers than the palm. When you close your left fingers on the shaft, the thumb runs down the outside of the shaft. The "V" points toward the right shoulder. Grip the shaft with your right hand so that the palm of that hand covers the thumb of the left. The little finger of the right hand overlaps the first finger of the left. With a grip like this, you're bound

Pirates in Final Series for 1957

NEW YORK (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates meet the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds today in their final series of the 1957 season.

Ronnie Kline (8-16) will pitch for the Pirates, who currently are tied for seventh place in the National League standings. The outcome of their two New York games could determine whether they beat out the Chicago Cubs for seventh place.

Manager Danny Murtaugh probably will pitch Bob Friend (13-18) in the season finale with the Giants on Sunday.

Ruben Gomez will hurl for the Giants in today's game with Curt Barclay scheduled for duty on Sunday.

Rosenbluth to Stars

NEW YORK (UP) — Lenny Rosenbluth, who paced the undefeated North Carolina Tarheels last season with 895 points in 32 basketball games, has been added to the College All-Star team which meets the New York Knickerbockers in an exhibition game at Madison Square Garden, Oct. 19. He joins Charley Tyra, Win Wilfong, Dick Duckett, Gerry Paulson, Chet Forte and Rod Hundley.

Yankees Boast Edge For Series Pitching

By FRED DOWN

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees' edge in pitching over the Milwaukee Braves is pointed up by the fact that Casey Stengel may use five starters while Fred Haney might very well play a seven - game Series using only three starters.

Stengel's five possible starters are left-handers Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz and right-handers Bob Turley, Tom Sturdivant and Don (Perfect Game) Larsen. Haney may start only lefty Warren Spahn and righties Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl in a series that will have two open days for travel.

All three of the Braves' "big three" have won more games than the top Yankee winner (Sturdivant, with 15 victories; but there are two reasons why this is not as important as it sounds: (1) Stengel likes to spread the work around more than most managers find possible and (2) Ford won only 11 games because he was sidelined a large part of the season with arm trouble.

Ford, Spahn Tops

The two best pitchers in the Series undoubtedly are Ford and Spahn—and they could start against each other three times, beginning with the opener. Spahn comes off a splendid 20-11 season and is best equipped to handle Yankee power. Ford, 11-4 this season, is 4-2 in series competition and 91-32 for six AL seasons—like Spahn a class pitcher in all respects.

Haney, no doubt, will follow with Burdette (16-9) in the second game and Buhl (18-6 in the third. He might start Bob Trowbridge (7-5) or even Gene Conley in the fourth but is more likely to start back with Spahn. Trowbridge and Conley figure as middle - inning relievers with Don McMahon the late-inning closer and Juan Pidarro and Taylor Phillips the lefties in reserve.

Most Yankee observers think Stengel will start Shantz in the second game on the theory that lefties figure to pitch well against the Braves at Yankee Stadium. That would mean Turley in the third game, Sturdivant in the fourth and either Ford or Larsen in the fifth. Bob Grim, 18-8, is the Yankees' No. 1 bullpen man with Turley also scheduled for late-inning strikeout work.

McMahon's Record Deceptive

Outside of the "big three" the Braves' most important pitcher could turn out to be McMahon, who has one of the most deceptive records of the year. A 6-2, 215-pounder, this big right - hander was credited with only one victory. But he pitched brilliant relief since the Braves called him up in July and he throws harder than any other pitcher in the series except Turley.

NFL Opens 38th Season Sunday; Steelers One-Point Underdogs

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The National Football League, which likes to bill itself as "the greatest show for your entertainment dollars," opens its 38th season Sunday with all signs pointing toward another banner campaign.

All 12 teams swing into action with the defending champion New York Giants, generally picked to repeat, favored by four and one-half points to beat the always tough and rebuilding Cleveland Browns. The Chicago Bears are favored by seven over Green Bay, Baltimore by one point over Detroit, Washington by the same margin over Pittsburgh, Los Angeles by 11 1-2 over Philadelphia and San Francisco by five over the Cardinals.

The league, which has graduated from a one-time poor-relation in the sports world to a multi-million dollar operation, expects to draw more than two and one-half million fans through the turnstiles.

Bert Bell, NFL commissioner who rules with a firm hand, predicts a "bigger and better" season and anticipates a record attendance for the sixth straight season and ninth in the last 12 years.

Approximately 200,000 fans in all are expected to turn out for the opening day action, while countless millions will take in the games via TV through various stations reaching from coast to coast.

The television program plus teresting play have done more to enhance the pro game than anything else since the battle with the now defunct All-American Conference.

Bell described the TV program, which is run on an individual team basis, "the greatest we ever had, running from Maine to Seattle, and covering points we never were before."

Only two changes were made from last year in the coaching ranks, with Buddy Parker moving over from Detroit to Pittsburgh and his assistant at Detroit, George Wilson, taking over the Lions.

Parker replaced Walt Kiesling, who stepped down because of poor health.

However, there have been numerous player changes, with 14 at Pittsburgh following Parker's acceptance of that job. Many big name players, too, were caught in the sudden burst of trades.

Al Dorow moved from the Redskins to the Eagles, Ed Beatty from the Forty-niners to the Steelers, Jug Girard from the Colts to the Steelers, Frank Gatski from the Browns to the Lions, Tobin Rote from the Packers to the Lions and Marv Matusak from the Steelers to the Forty-niners, just to mention a few.

With most clubs banking on trades to change their makeup, only a smattering of newcomers were able to survive cutdowns, but included in this group were some of the best collegiates from last year.

Included in this group were Jim Brown and Milt Plum (Cleveland) Paul Hornung and Ron Kramer (Green Bay), Paul Larson and Jerry Tubbs (Cardinals), Ronnie Knox and Earl Leggett (Bears), Billy Pricer and Jim Parker (Baltimore), Lenny Dawson and Mike Sandusky (Pittsburgh), Don Bosseler and Joe Walton (Washington) Terry Barr (Detroit), Jon Arnett, John Pardee and Paige Cothren (Los Angeles), John Brodie (San Francisco), Jimmy Harris, Bill Barnes and Tommy McDonald (Philadelphia), and Ed Crawford (New York).

Six-player Deal Between Chisox, Orioles Rumored

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago White Sox Vice Presidents Charles A. Comiskey and John D. Rigney have admitted that trade talks between the White Sox and Baltimore Orioles have been in the mill, but they would not identify the players involved.

The White Sox front office executives wouldn't go as far out on a limb with their statement as did a Baltimore newspaper. The newspaper said a deal was "virtually completed" that would send outfielders Larry Doby and Minnie Minoso and pitcher Jack Harshman to the Orioles.

In exchange, the White Sox, according to the newspaper, would get outfielder Tito Francona, veteran infielder George Kell and pitcher Ray Moore.

Comiskey said he, Rigney and "along those lines" was discussed, but he said nothing would be "finalized" until Baltimore General Manager and Field Manager Paul Richards visited Chicago this week end.

But Richards said there was "absolutely nothing" to the trade rumor. He said he "had no plans to talk to Chuck Comiskey in the near future."

Rigney said "You can bet we wouldn't be interested in the three Orioles named for the three mentioned that we would give them."

Comiskey said he, Rigne yand White Sox manager Al Lopez also talked trade with Detroit Tiger personnel manager John McHale.

It has been rumored that the Bengals have their eye on Doby and reserve catcher Les Moss. The White Sox seem to want Tiger shortstop Harvey Kuenn, who would probably move over to third base if he joined the White Sox livery.

Earlier Comiskey said only pitchers Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan, infielders Nellie Fox and Luis Aparicio and catcher Sherm Lollar were not available for trade.

Chisox Sign Pitcher

CHICAGO (UP)—Larry Admire, a right— handed pitcher from Brookfield, Mo., High School who starred in prep football, basketball and baseball, has been signed to a 1958 contract with the Chicago White Sox' Davenport, Iowa, farm club.

Linked Again to NY Deal

HARRISBURG, Sept. 28. (UP)—Leo H. Petersen, United Press sports editor, predicts that New York City will have a baseball club in the National League next season even if the Brooklyn Dodgers follow the New York Giants to the West Coast.

Speaking before a UP dinner held Friday night in conjunction with the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Assn., Petersen said he was certain the Dodgers would announce before the Oct. 1 deadline that they are shifting to Los Angeles. The Giants already have announced they are going to San Francisco.

Petersen wrote last May 27 that the Dodgers and Giants were "sure bets" to go to California for the 1958 season, with the Cincinnati Redlegs moving into New York City. Some roadblocks have come in connection with the proposal to move the Redlegs to New York, one of them being the reluctance of owner Powell Crosley to sell the club.

"The group which is bidding to buy the Redlegs also is willing, if it can't buy Cincinnati, to purchase some other National League Club with the proviso that the franchise be transferred to New York City," Petersen said. "If the negotiations to move the Redlegs to New York fall through, the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Chicago Cubs probably will move in."

Pirates Losing Money

Petersen said the Pirates are reported on the block because owner John Galbreath has been losing money ever since he took over the Pittsburgh franchise, and Galbreath is said to be willing to dispose of his stock.

"The Cubs, despite the fact that owner Phil Wrigley doesn't worry about finances, may be for sale because of the growing feeling that no city, except perhaps New York City, is able to support two major league clubs," Petersen said, "and when the Dodgers announce they are going to Los Angeles, Chicago will be the only city that still has two major league clubs left."

The National League club owners, Petersen said, never would have approved the shifts of the Giants and Dodgers unless they were sure that New York City still would have a club in the league.

"San Francisco and Los Angeles figure to be gold mines for the Giants and Dodgers for several years, but in the long run, the National League club owners are aware that no market can equal that of New York City's potential," Petersen said. "That potential is wrapped up in television and radio revenue even more than in gate receipts.

Other Revenue Available

"There is no doubt among baseball men that so far as gate attendance is concerned, San Francisco and Los Angeles will do better than the Giants did at the Polo Grounds this season or the Dodgers at Ebbets Field," he said. "But baseball these days doesn't rely as heavily on gate receipts as it used to. For instance for TV and radio rights alone this year Brooklyn received $750,000 and the Giants $600,000."

Petersen said neither team can command that price for TV and radio rights in California "for the simple reason that the market isn't as large as the one in New York."

"San Francisco and Los Angeles together do not have as many TV sets as there are in the metropolitan New York area and you can be sure that the TV advertisers are well aware of it," he said. "It's to keep that TV and radio market that the National League will do everything within its power to keep a club in New York.

"For while baseball might insist, especially in Washington, that it isn't a business, the club owners don't practice what they preach. Like in all other industry, they want their return to pay off 100 cents on the dollar."

The dinner for United Press clients held in the ballroom of the Penn-Harris Hotel was presided over by Gerald J. Rock, UP eastern states division manager.

Gallatin - Roscoe WCSL Tilt Set

The Washington County Soccer League swings into its second week of the season Sunday with Patterson Supply (Gallatin) appearing at Roscoe and Avella visiting Van-Voorhis.

Manager Phil Ripepi of Patterson will rely in part on last season's Monongahela Junior to fill in for the veterans who have retired, and the Roscoe game will be a real test for the youngsters.

Linday Zemencik also has a few of the Monongahela Juniors on his Van Voorhis squad. Their game against Avella's young team should prove interesting.

G-E Has Weathertron Year-'round Electric Cooling and Heating

General Electric, through its dealer in heating, Monessen Heating & Roofing, 445 Schoonmaker avenue, Phone MU 4-6313, offers year-round, all electric cooling and heating for homes, stores and offices, the G-E Weathertron.

Operates on the heat pump principle: The G-E Weathertron provides fully automatic year 'round indoor weather control — using the same mechanism for both cooling and heating.

Cools without water: It is a compact self-contained, air-cooled unit that automatically cools and dehumidifies in the summer.

Heats without fuel: The same machine automatically heats the same space in cold weather using nothing but outdoor air and electricity..

Design benefits: New architectural flexibility eliminates dependence on chimney flues, cooling towers, pumps or exposed piping. The Weathertron can be located in utility room, attic, basement, garage — even out of doors.

User benefits: Gives unmatched comfort, convenience and safety; keeps the home cleaner. Weathertron is a good investment for the future.

Weathertron heats without burning fuel, cools without using water — operates on air and electricity alone. The Weathertron is not a combination of individual heating and cooling units, one of which is idle (and subject to deterioratiion) at least half of the year. It does not require the technical know-how of several trades to service and maintain. Rather, it is a single "all-year weather machine" that is bringing new comfort, convenience and safety to America's homes and commercial buildings.

You already have a heat pump in your home. Your refrigerator — in engineering language — is a heat pump. . . which simply means that the refrigerator is a machine that moves or pumps heat from one location to another.

Cold is merely the absence of heat. Therefore, when you take heat from the food stored in the refrigerator, it leaves the food cold. To remove this heat from the box, a cooling coil in the refrigerator draws heat from the food stored inside. This heat is then pumped to another coil on the outside of the refrigerator where it is given up to the room air.

A room air conditioner is also a heat pump. In summer, the room air conditioner pumps heat from indoors to outdoors thereby lowering the indoor temperature and cooling the room.

Average home installation cost of a Weathertron is in the same general price range as that for a conventional heating-cooling system with its auxiliary piping, cooling towers, chimneys, flues, controls, etc. Multiple installations are quite feasible in large homes.

Low installation costs. When the home is designed to take advantage of Weathertron's flexibility there is no appreciable difference in cost between a Weathertron and conventional systems. The few needed connections can readily be made. Only two trades are involved. Neither extensive structural changes nor costly plumbing is needed. No piping required for water, refrigerant, or fuel.

While there is no limit to the temperatures which the heat pump will handle, General Electric has found that it is more economical to include supplementary heaters in each Weathertron unit to handle those few hours of the coldest days of the year when temperatures are extremely low. These heaters, which assure that the machine need not be oversized, are an integral part of each unit and are installed at the factory. (Oversizing the unit is expensive and is accompanied by some loss of temperature control).

Operating Costs. Most owners are pleasantly surprised when they find out how little it actually costs to heat and cool with a Weathertron. The operating mechanism is extremely efficient, and delivers maximum cooling and heating for every unit of electricity used — more than twice as much heat as ordinary electric heating. In most areas, the operating cost of a Weathertron system on a year 'round basis compares favorably with ordinary combustion-electric systems. However, on the basis of cleanliness, convenience, and dependable all-year automatic operation, the Weathertron will more than justify any difference which may exist.

Haury Pharmacy Prescriptions Of Purest Drugs

When your family physician gives you a prescription to be filled at a drug store, if you'll take it to the Haury Pharmacy, corner of Oneida and Schoonmaker in Monessen, it will be filled by a registered pharmacist who is always on duty and who will fill it to the letter — with the purest of drugs obtainable.

All this will help you get well faster and everyone is anxious to do that — no fun in being sick!

Haury's is a home-owned pharmacy that is interested in Monessen, the Valley and its many patrons. It has your community's interest at heart in every respect. So rest assured you'll get quality products and the finest of service here.

Now in the Fall season and with Winter coming along there is bound to be more sickness in the city and area. If you get a cold and don't improve after using home remedies, see your family physician at once. Don't delay — because delays can often prove costly.

And it would be wise to carry some drug supplies of your own in your home — like salves, cough syrups, cotton, bandages, and other medical supplies to be used in an emergency in case you have an accident in your home which can happen in the best of families.

Be prepared for those emergencies until you can get hold of your family physician if the accident or sickness proves serious.

Take a trip to Haury's Pharmacy, corner of Oneida and Schoonmaker, this very week and put in some of these home drug supplies.

Toilet articles, cosmetics, magazines, smoker's supplies and many other items used daily in the home are stocked at Haury's.

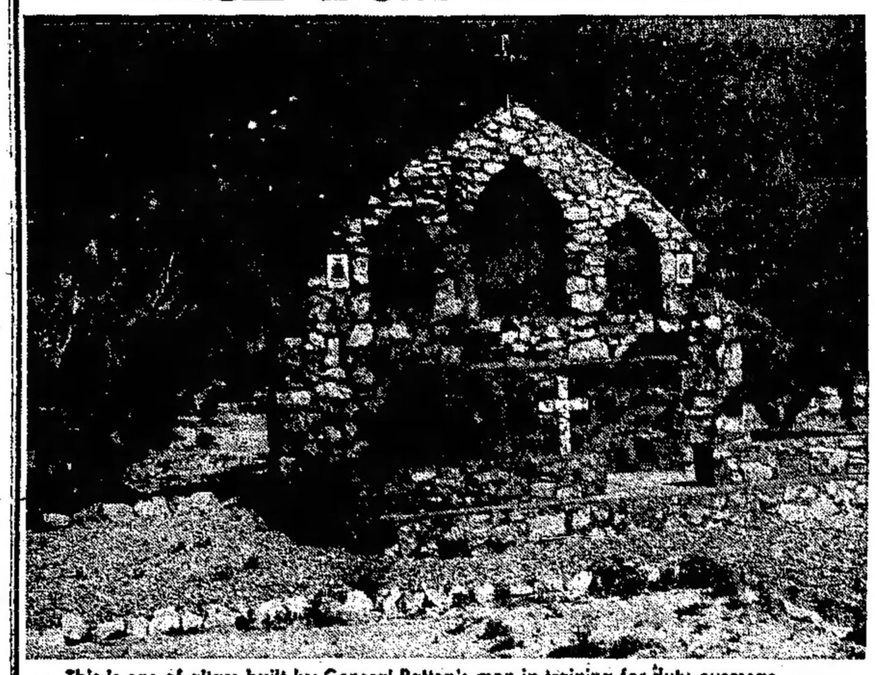
PRAISE FOR PATTON



This is one of altars built by General Patton's men in training for duty overseas.

ON THE SOUTHERN SLOPE of California's Iron mountain, Gen. George S. Patton drilled his tank corps in desert warfare before going into the real thing. Now, an effort is being made to have this 50 acres in southern California set aside as a memorial park to "Old Blood and Guts." Two imposing stone altars stand at what was the late general's headquarters. Other than the altars, the chief attraction is a huge relief map—130 by 160 feet. It represents an area of 32 thousand square miles. Over the map, orientation classes are held. The War department blocked efforts to turn the area into a memorial because it felt that too many memorials were being rushed through. The wasteland is still a testimonial.

He's looking at the built-to-scale relief map with its canyons and mountains.

Gertrude Evans Group Leader of Mission Society

The monthly meeting of Harmony Missionary Society was held Wednesday afternoon at the church with Gertrude Evans as devotional leader.

An article, "Christ's Way Everyday", was read by Lulu Grace Rhoades and "Jesus' Teachings on Citizenship" by Mae odd. A group discussion followed.

Lunch was prepared by Caroline Einhouse and Edna Radishek. Gertrude Skusca helped serve. Present were Bessie Hoffman, Jean Todd, Laura Leeper, May Snyder, Josephine Russell, Millie Krepps, Jessie Kidder and Ruth Clegg.

Thursday five of the leaders attended open house at the Oakmont Home for the Aged. They were Jessie Kidder, Ruth Clegg, Frances Snyder, Josephine Russel and Martha Rogers.

Brotherhood Meets At Earl Graham Home

The Men's Brotherhood of Webster Methodist Church met Thursday at the home of Earl Graham. Elmer Gillingham was devotional leader. His topic was "Bible Facts About Heaven".

Lunch was served by Mrs. Strang, a sister of the host. Others present were William Maurer, Charles Richey, Sam Colosemo, Teddy Leonard and Pete Cupples.

Guest speaker for the Sunday services at Pricedale Union Church will be Albert Hyle of New York. Services will be at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Secretary of Congressman Is Tripped Up

WASHINGTON (UP) — The "trusted" secretary of Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.), tripped up in a "nearly perfect crime" to defraud the government, was free today on $1,000 bond.

The secretary, Miss Marie Warme, was charged specifically with forging a $178.54 government check in 1955. But an aide to Miller said he understood thousands of dollars might be involved.

Miller said the matter was "a shock" to him because Miss Warme "has been my trusted employe for nearly 13 years," longer than any of his other office aides.

The congressman's aide, Ken Karabatsos, gave this account.

Whenever temporary employes left Miller's employe, Miller would write a letter to the House Disbursing Office asking that the employe be taken off the payroll. Miss Warme was supposed to deliver the letters to the disbursing office.

Miller wrote such a letter in the spring of 1955 when Olga Sianas left his employ to accept a job with a federal judge. Miss Sianas returned to the congressional payroll on the staff of Rep. D. S. Saund (D-Calif.).

She recently protested she had not received the May 31, 1955, check for employment with Miller. Karabatsos said an investigation revealed Miss Warme had failed to obey Miller's orders to take Miss Sianas off the congressional payroll and had, instead, picked up the check herself.

Former Senate Pageboy Spends Night in Jail

WASHINGTON (UP)—Huw Williams, former Senate pageboy who ran off last June with a Swedish diplomat's daughter, spent the night in jail accused of grand larceny and armed hold-up.

The 18-year-old high school senior was held on $2,000 bond in Fairfax County, Va., charged with stealing six automobile tires Sept. 1 from a service station owner.

County police said Williams put four of the tires on his car and sold the other two. Two 16-year-old accomplices also were arrested and charged with grand larceny.

Washington police said they would ask that Williams be held for trial on an armed hold-up charge.

They said he admitted holding up Frank P. Cullen, 64, last Wednesday night, again with two young accomplices. They said the youths forced Cullen to drive several blocks and then took $45, a billfold and a watch from him.

Williams created an international incident of sorts last June when he eloped with Christina Wennerstrom, 16-year-old daughter of the Swedish air attache here, for a 12-day trip to Canada.

'Spies' Seized

VIENNA (UP) — Communist Czech security police have smashed a widespread spy ring and arrested a number of "American spies" in all parts of Czechoslovakia, it was reported today.

Builders Class To Hold Covered Dish Supper

The Builders Class of Rehoboth Church met Tuesday at the church with Mrs. Elsie Carter and Mrs. Thelma Smoch as leaders.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Who is on the Lord's Side". Prayers by the leaders followed. Mrs. Smock read two poems and Mrs. Carter talked on "Brotherhood" and also read from scripture. Group singing of "More About Jesus" closed devotions.

Business was in charge of Mabel Nichols, president. Reports were given by Thelma Smock, secretary, and Eleanor Heath, treasurer. The class voted to send a donation to the Oakmont Home for the Aged.

At the next meeting a covered dish supper will be held at the church at 6 p.m.

It was decided to have the Scottdale Choral Society appear at Sunday evening services on Nov. 17. The committee in charge is made up of Freda Smith, Jean Goff and Eleanor Heath.

Elizabeth Gess and Ann Rechichar were appointed to the nominating committee. Adeline Smith sent a thank you card for the baby gift the class sent.

Hostesses were Mary Wiseman, Mae Gilmore, Martha Nichols and Hilda Como. Others present were Elsie Gaffney, Lena Watts, Mrs. Ellis Gadd and Donna Mae Smock

Mrs. Sara West Is Honored on Birthday

Mrs. Sara West of Rosemond Plan was honored at her home Friday with a surprise birthday party. The affair was planned by her husband Howard, and a neighbor, Mrs. Ernest Como. About 40 attended.

Games were played and lunch served by the hostess from a decorated table centered with a large cake. Mrs. West received many gifts from the guests from Monongahela, Perryopolis and Belle Vernon.

To Speak Tomorrow

Guest speaker at the tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. services at Webster Methodist Church will be Alvin Cheney, a layman from Sampson Union Church. The public is invited. Group singing will be featured.

Next Sunday, the Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway will be guest speaker.

On Hunting Trip

Robert Smock, Elridge Smock and Dave Turney, of R. D., Belle Vernon, left Thursday for a deer hunting trip in Wyoming.

Enroute they were to stop at Gary, Ind., and pick up two more Smock brothers, Jake and Marion.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Howenstine were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller.

Billy Graham Says 'Love of God' Only Way

TEANECK, N.J. (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham told a capacity audience in a local armory Friday night that only "the love of God" will end racial strife in Little Rock, Ark., and other cities.

"Racism is a symptom of something very wrong within," Graham said, "and this symptom is a symptom of sin. The only cure is the love of God."

The 38-year-old evangelist added that "When you have a society of people who do not know peace within themselves, then you have mob violence and wars."

Graham's staff reported that 8,500 persons heard the evangelist in the armory, but police said there were only a few standees in addition to the capacity crowd of 7,500. Police said nearby streets were jammed with traffic and many cars turned back after the parking lots were filled.

An estimated 400 persons recorded "decisions for Christ" at the close of Graham's sermon, one in a series he is preaching in New York City's suburbs.

Wrong Type Drive

CHICAGO (UP) — Roger Williams, 23, just can't seem to go straight. Police arrested Williams for weaving his car through traffic; then two persons identified him as the man who robbed their homes.

"I've killed a child!"

"Never had an accident before. Never been in trouble with the law. Always tried to do right by my family and friends . . . they'll tell you. Now I've killed a child—just by taking a foolish chance."

Every day it happens, often just like that, to drivers who thought accidents happen only to the other fellow.

Remember this. No one expects to meet death on the road. Certainly no one expects to be guilty of causing it. Yet, last year 40,000 men, women and children died in traffic accidents.

Thousands of drivers—many who never had or expected to have an accident—found themselves guilty of killing someone on the highway. Most of these deaths can be prevented—with your cooperation.

BACK THE ATTACK ON TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Here's how you can help stop traffic tragedies:

1. Drive safely and courteously yourself. Observe speed limits and warning-signs. Where traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!
2. Insist on strict enforcement of all traffic laws. Traffic regulations work for you, not against you. Where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go DOWN!

Repairs to Home Are Investment

A good businessman rarely hesitates to make an investment in office equipment or plant machinery when he knows the investment will pay for itself in increased production.

The same applies to homeowners if they can be reasonably sure an investment in building materials or replacement of a vital piece of equipment will return in greater comfort and security, plus pay for itself quickly.

A good example is an aging or faulty furnace. If it is doing an inefficient job it is wasting fuel and failing to provide maximum comfort. Replacing it with a new unit pays off in greater family comfort and health, and the resultant fuel savings will pay back at least part of the expenditure in a few years.

One home improvement that always pays for itself is insulation. Thick mineral wool — at least 4 inches in ceilings and 3 inches in walls — returns a homeowner's investment by:

1. Keeping expensive heat inside in winter. The furnace runs less frequently and fuel bills are reduced by as much as 40 percent.

2. Providing more cold weather comfort and better health. A house without proper insulation in walls can be a drafty house in winter. The uninsulated walls are cold and this causes heated air next to them to chill quickly. The heavier, chilled air drops to the floor and scuds across it in a cold draft. Young children playing on the floor are more susceptible to colds because of these drafts, and adults suffer constantly from cold feet. Mineral wool in the walls stops the drafts by keeping the walls at about the same temperature as the air in the room.

3. Providing more comfort in summer. The insulation works the opposite way in summer by helping to keep heat out of a house. In an air-conditioned house, thick mineral wool reduces the cost of both the original equipment and its day-to-day operation.

Wood 'Bumpers' Will Save Cars

Removable wood "bumpers" installed on the walls of concrete garages will save scratches on paint and chrome of car doors. Bumpers can be made of 1 by 2-inch or 1 by 4-inch lumber and hung by cords at a height where car door will strike them when opened.

Make Acid Brush

A long-lasting soldering acid brush can be made quickly from a few rubber bands pinched together with a piece of sheet metal bent around them for a handle.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A PRIVACY SCREEN

Lack of privacy when relaxing in the backyard is a problem for many home owners. A privacy screen is the answer.

Make the post holes 7 feet 9 inches apart on centers. Dig the holes 34 inches deep and fill the bottom 2 inches with gravel.

The 10-foot posts are made of 4 by 4-inch lumber. Use naturally durable wood or treated wood. Bevel the top of the posts.

The screen is made of 1 by 12 (or 1 by 10), 1 by 6, and 2 by 4-inch lumber. The slats are 84 inches long; the 1 by 6-inch top is 81½ inches; and the 2 by 4-inch braces are 87½ inches. Draw diagonal lines on the ends of the braces to locate the center point for the screw eyes.

Assemble the screen section as shown using 6-penny rustproof nails. Space the slats evenly.

Set the posts in concrete. Fasten the hooks to the posts. Join the sections to the posts. Additional sections can be added or sections may be easily removed.

Materials Needed (each section)

8 pcs. 1 x 12 in. x 14 ft. (or 4 pcs. 1 x 10 in. x 14 ft. for closer spacing)
1 pc. 1 x 6 in. x 8 ft.
2 pcs. 2 x 4 in. x 8 ft.
2 pcs. 4 x 4 in. x 10 ft.
6-penny rustproof finishing nails
4 large hooks and eyes

Some Owners Slow To Fix Heat Leaks

A leak anywhere in the water supply system usually gets quick attention from the home-owner. He knows that even a slow drip-drip costs money in wasted water.

But another type of leak many home-owners fail to do anything about because they aren't aware of it is the silent, invisible escape of heat through gaps in the insulation barrier.

Heat gets out through these leaks in a steady stream all winter long, wasting costly fuel and causing discomfort zones in the home.

Economy-minded home-owners can find and correct these insulation leaks. A few of the most common areas where leaks are discovered are the wall between the hose and an enclosed garage, a garage or porch ceiling with living space above it, and, particularly in split levels, the wall between the attic over the lower level and the upper level bedrooms.

In areas which are easy to reach, the homeowner can stop insulation leaks himself with thick batts or blankets of mineral wool. Areas such as a large wall or ceiling which the homeowner suspects is not insulated or has inadequate insulation can be inspected by an insulation contractor and properly insulated by him if necessary.

It's also a good idea to look for small gaps in areas which have been insulated, such as the attic floor. Here batts and blankets shold fit snugly against joists and against the wood at the ends of the joists, and there should be no holes. Batts and blankets generally can be pushed in place, and any holes found can be filled with pouring wool available from building-material dealers.

Now Is the Time To Check Drafts

Early fall is the time to check windows and exterior doors throughout a house to make sure they are functioning efficiently for the winter ahead.

A drafty house and high heating bills often can be traced to windows and doors which do not fit properly, or to faulty weatherstripping.

Old windows and doors can be replaced with units of ponderosa pine pre-fitted at the factory. These pass laboratory tests for tight fit and easy operation and weatherstripping is precisely installed.

The clear ponderosa pine also is chemically treated to resist moisture and keep shrinking or swelling from causing trouble.

A sturdy platform to hold a clothes dryer above a washer solves a space problem in small laundry rooms. If both appliances have front openings and controls, the platform is built directly above the washer, using ¾ inch plywood for the top, and legs made out of pipe or by 2 x 4 lumber.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q — We've used a lot of unfinished furniture in our home, putting it together and painting or staining the pieces in colors we like. Now we'd like to install some "built-in" closets, cabinets, and other storage units, but department stores don't seem to have what we want. Are such units available? If so, where?

A — Building material dealers carry as stock items many styles and sizes in cabinets of ponderosa pine that are ideal for built-in storage. These come K. D. (knocked down) and can be assembled with standard tools. The ponderosa pine is a clear-grained wood which takes stain or paint well.

Q — I plan to enclose an open porch and hope to add a bedroom above it at a later date. Will 2x6 joists be adequate for the ceiling of the porch?

A — No. These would be fine if they supported only the porch roof and ceiling, but are too light for the weight of an overhead room. Use 2x8 joists for safe construction.

Q — We're installing a water softener. Is it necessary to bypass the outdoor hose faucets with the soft water system?

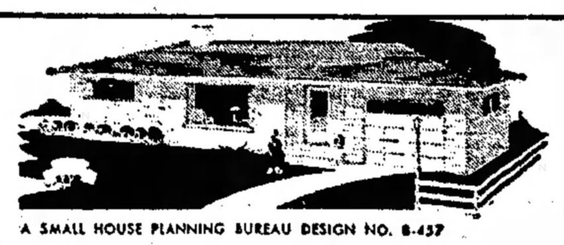
A — Yes, since sprinkling of lawns and flower beds with soft water would deposit sodium salts from softener in soil. In time, this could retard growth of plants.

Q — What's a good mortar mix for outdoor brickwork?

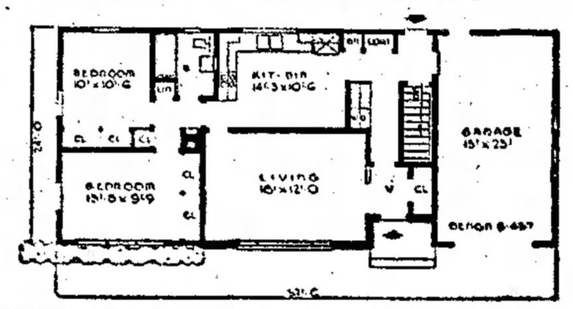
A — Use a type "B" mortar mix made from 1 part Portland cement, 1 part hydrated lime and not less than 5 or more than 6½ parts sand. Type "B" masonry cement also is avilable. Mix this with 3 parts sand, 1 part cement.

Q — What kind of bit should I use with my electric drill to cut anchor holes in a concrete block wall?

A — Use carbide-tipped bits. A heavy-duty ¼-inch drill will handle holes in masonry up to ½ inch. Larger holes require a ½-inch drill. Use as small a bit as is practical for the job to avoid overtaxing the drill.



A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. B-457



DESIGN B-457. The combination kitchen-dinette (larger than average for a small home) has efficient L-shaped work counter and cabinets. Adjoining the kitchen, a small hall leads to the bathroom and the bedrooms which boast large wardrobe type closets. Separate broom and coat closets are handy at the rear entry which affords ready access to the garage, and direct access to the full basement. The stone veneer and planter add a colorful touch to the exterior with its wide horizontal siding, hip roof and asphalt shingles. Not including the garage, the house covers 1011 sq. ft. and contains 18,198 cu. ft.

Insulation Can Save You Money

Studies at the University of Illinois have shown that thick mineral wool insulation can save as much as 40 percent per year on heating bills and reduce operating costs of air conditioning by as much as 67 percent.

Vise-grip Pliers Come in Handy

A pair of vise-grip pliers is an efficient and knuckle-saving aid when drilling holes in concrete with a star drill. The pliers hold the drill firmly, make turning it easier, and keep hands away from possible misses with the hammer.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. George Kyle, who died one year ago today, September 28, 1956.
Darling mother, how we miss you,
No one will ever know
Of the many heartaches and sorrows,
As the days come and go.
You left with us a memory
Which clings around your name,
Just how brave and true you were
Until the day you died.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But the love we hold for you dear one,
Will never fade away.
We love you more and always
And miss you more each day
Your name is always mentioned
In many, loving ways.
Sadly missed by daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Mustybrook and Children

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Germaine Kyle, who died one year ago today, September 28, 1956.
I cannot say, I will not say
That she is dead, she is just away.
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand
She has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair,
It needs must be, since she lingers there.
And you, oh! you, who the while dost yearn
For the old time step and the glad return,
Think of her faring as dear in the love of there
As the love of here;
Think of her still, as the same, I say
She is not dead, she is just away.
Sadly missed by husband, son, Charles; daughter, Denise Shawley and grandsons, Dennis and Jerry.

Blind Father Seeking Wife

BOGALUSA, La. (UP)—A blind man who said his five-year-old daughter is 'wasting away" from grief for her absent mother, appealed today for radio and newspaper aid to bring his wife back.

Dan Williams said his little daughter Sally has failed to rally from an attack of flu since her mother left the family several weeks ago.

"She has gone from 45 pounds to 30 pounds. She won't eat and continually asks for her mother," the father said.

Williams said his wife was gone when he came home from work one day last month, and that he has not heard from her since. He said she had given no indication she planned to leave.

The blind father said he believed his wife went to New Orleans.

Near Collisions Great Problems

WASHINGTON (UP)—Near collisions in America's crowded airways are still a major aviation problem despite air traffic control improvements, a Civil Aeronautics Board report showed today.

The board said the nation's aircraft were involved in more than three "near - misses" daily last spring.

The CAB report, covering the April-June period, listed 297 aircraft reporting close brushes with other flying aircraft.

This was, however, a drop of 10 per cent from the preceding three-month period.

California led the list with 58 near-collisions. New York had 24, Illinois 20, Texas 18, Florida 14 and Pennsylvania 12.

Network Report

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Federal Communications Commission's special staff report on radio and television network practices goes to the commission's network study committee Thursday. The report was drawn up by a special staff headed by Roscoe L. Barrow, dean of the University of Cincinnati College of Law. It is the result of a study ordered by the commission in 1955 to determine whether network practices and policies "promote or hinder" competition.

Your Health—

There Is no One Remedy That Can Cure All Our Ills

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Once upon a time there was a donkey.

Each day this donkey was loaded with merchandise of one sort or another and forced to carry it from one town to the next. It so happened that he had to cross a stream midway between the two towns during each daily trip.

One day, as he was transporting a load of salt, the donkey accidentally slipped while crossing the stream and fell into the cool water.

Since it was a hot day, he lay there for a few minutes enjoying the comfortable coolness until his master prodded him into action again.

As he rested in the stream, the water dissolved a good portion of the salt he was carrying. Therefore, and much to his surprise, his load was considerably lighter when he arose.

On the return trip the following day, the donkey had an idea.

He purposely fell in midstream. But when he rose he found his burden was much heavier. This time, you see, he was carrying a load of sponges. His burden soon became too much for him and he collapsed and died.

There's a moral to this fable, of course. And it's a moral all of you should respect:

The same remedy does not apply to all cases of sickness.

Once you get a prescription from your physician, many of you use the medicine for other ailments as they occur. Or you you pass it on to a friend with the advice: "Try it; it cured me."

No single drug, or even combination of drugs, is a cure-all. There is a specific remedy for most of our common illnesses, fortunately, but, in most cases, a different drug is required for each.

When a prescribed medicine has served its purpose and has cured you, get rid of it. Toss it out of the medicine cabinet into the refuse can. Then you won't be tempted to use it next time something else goes wrong.

Just remember what happened to thant donkey. Don't make a donkey of yourself.

L. S.: My uncle has a malignant tumor in back of the kidneys and abdominal organs. He is too sick to be operated on. Is there any other method of treating such a tumor?

Answer: Some tumors of this type known as retroperitoneal tumors are effectively treated by X-ray. However, whether or not this treatment would be effective in this case would depend upon the type of tumor present.

'Health Digest' Series Begins On Station WQED

An interesting and practical look at some of the things the average person can do to improve his state of being — both physical and mental — is being given at 7:30 p. m. each Thursday when WQED telecasts the "Health Digest" program.

This series, telecast in cooperation with the Pittsburgh District Dairy Council, is presented in a magazine format and features Jean Connelly, Pittsburgh television personality, as hostess and editor. The programs are designed to offer something for the entire family and further will feature from week to week visits with experts in the fields of nutrition, exercise and recreation.

The opening show on Thursday, September 26, had as a special guest Dr. L. M. Smith, former head of health services in the Pittsburgh public schools, who spoke on the general topic of "health" and then explained some common food fallacies. Also on hand were Mrs. Lucille Campbell, home economics supervisor in the city schools; Philip Sellers, county agricultural agent; and two young Four-H Club members.

The "nutrition story" again will be told on the second show of the series.

Some of the subjects to be covered in future shows are "food and growth" "health and beauty," "posture," "weight control," parenthood," "obesity," and geriatrics."

New TV Panel Show Cast Chosen by NBC

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) —The channel swim...

"What's It For," the NBC - TV panel show set for an Oct. 12 unveiling, has signed up three-quarters of a panel—Hans Conreid, Abe Burrows and Betsy Palmer. Hal March is emcee.

Frank Sinatra is using Wally Cox in one of his upcoming dramatic half-hours for ABC-TV, "The Green Grass of St. Theresa"... Ronald MacDougall, Nan Fabray's husband, will write Harry Belafonte's new picture, "The End of the World." Belafonte will start shooting Oct. 28 in Manhattan.

NBC Radio muffles its "Conversation" show after Oct. 1...CBS-TV has assigned Marvin Marx and Walter Stone, former writers for Jackie Gleason, to the Phil Silvers Show...CBS Radio is killing off its funny Stan Freberg show.

Bennett Cerf will emcee CBS-TV's "What's My Line" until Oct. 6 when John Daly returns from a vacation in England. Daly racked up 382 consecutive appearances on the show until he took leave.

Mildred Dunnock replaces Peggy Wood in "Playroom," an upcoming "Playhouse 90" — Miss Wood ran into a sponsor conflict between her syndicated "I Remember Mama" series and the CBS-TV drama.

Mahalia Jackson, one of the stars of the CBS-TV's "Crescendo" spec, came all the way into Manhattan from Chicago by bus ...Piper Laurie got the lead in "The Changing Ways of Love," opening show on CBS-TV's new "Seven Lively Arts."

Fred Coe, pioneer TV showman, has switched to Broadway — He'll produce "Two On A Seesaw" with Henry Fonda...NBC Radio will launch a new Red Foley afternoon show on Nov. 2...CBS-TV's "Mr. Adams and Eve," worried about competition from the upcoming ABC-TV Frank Sinatra Show, will inject some juice into future episodes by shooting them in Las Vegas, Sun Valley and Hawaii.

Sofia Loren and Producer Are Wed

JUAREZ, Mexico (UP) — Film star Sofia Loren and producer Carlo Ponti were married here by proxy Sept. 17, the Juarez registry office announced Thursday night.

Miss Loren was in Italy but Ponti's whereabouts at the time of their proxy marriage were not known.

TV NOTES

The fourth "Playhouse 90" production of the season, on CBS Oct. 3, will be "A Sound of Different Drummers," a play by Robert Alan Aurthur dealing with a world facing social oblivion.

"Navy Log" shifts to 10 - 10:30 p.m. Thursdays on ABC for the beginning of its third season on Oct. 17. Several famous personages are scheduled to make appearances in connection with certain shows, some of which may relate their own service experiences. Among these are U. S. Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gov. Joe J. Foss of South Dakota and Hollywood star Ernest Borgnine. Also invited to make token appearances are Vice President Richard Nixon, Robert Montgomery, Douglas Fairbanks, and Lord Louis Mountbatten.
